Discuss State Promotional Plans Jan. 18

Maine's promotional program in all its phases will be exposed to intense public scrutiny by a panel of ten leading businessmen and public officials at the 32nd Annual Meeting of the State of Maine Publicity Bureau in the Hotel Eastland, Portland, next Monday afternoon.

Entitled "The Spotlight on Maine's Promotion," the panel will examine the various promotional activities which benefit the major categories of business in this State, discuss how these businesses are benefited and make suggestions as to expanding or increasing such benefits.

Publicity Bureau leaders stated they believe that with the nation's economy moving into an era of keener competition than has existed for possibly 15 years, the time is opportune for a searching public examination into the what, why and how of Maine's total promotional program. Activities of the Maine Publicity Bureau, Maine Development Commission and Maine State Chamber of Commerce will be included in the discussion, since these are coordinated to make up the bulk of Maine's total promotional effort.

Participating in the panel will be Horace W. Chapman, Bangor hotelman, for food and lodgings; Kenneth C. Tipper, Oakland, president of Associated Industries of Maine, for manufacturing; Frank J. Leahy, formerly of Portland and now of Bangor, for retail sales; Charles L. Hildreth, Portland, for wholesaling and distributing; Francis C. Spiller, Sanford, for the automotive industry; Frank W. Proulx, Portland, for the professions; Emory L. Mallett, Farmington, for public utilities; Walter L. Spillholz, Portland, for the service industries; Ralph Irving, Ellsworth City Manager, for municipalities; and Ernest H. Johnson, State Tax Assessor, for State finances.

Arthur F. Maxwell, Eldeford banker and president of the Maine Publicity Bureau, will preside at the panel session, as well as the annual business meeting, scheduled for 2 p. m.

Gov. Burton M. Cross and New England Council President Curtis M. Hutchins of Bangor will be the principal speakers at the annual banquet in the evening.

REGULAR ARMY MAN TO SEEK COUNTY COMMISSIONER'S SEAT

James Lassiter, of Albany, retired regular army man, announced he would seek nomination as one of the county commissioners, in the Republican primaries this year.

Mr. Lassiter is well known in this county, particularly in Civil Defense and American Legion circles. He is now District Commander of the American Legion. He retired as a Major in the regular Army after serving in the Infantry for 21 years.

During his army life he served in stations throughout the world and was an active participant in World War Two. He was seriously wounded in action during the invasion of Normandy in northern France and it was as a result of these wounds that he retired in May 1950.

Mr. Lassiter and his wife, the former Rosaline Morrill, a native of Bethel, settled in Albany where they own property. Mr. Lassiter is a native of Ohio and entered the Regular Army following his graduation.

During the occupation of Europe, after the surrender of Germany, he served some time as an official in the Military Government of Austria.

Mr. Lassiter's interest in government affairs, coupled with the time to devote to interests now that he is retired were the main factors in his decision to seek public office.

Survey Comm. Reports On School Costs

At the School Survey Committee meeting last week some members of the committee gave reports of various conversations which they had overheard, or taken part in, relative to the fact that the elementary tuition pupils were not paying their way, particularly their proportionate cost of school buildings. After hearing these reports the committee decided this lack of understanding on the part of some of the townspeople was great enough to justify the insertion of a special article of explanation in the Citizen. If the people have been misinformed, the committee felt it had an obligation to present the facts to them.

The present tuition charge is $108.00 per year or $3.00 per week per pupil. Last year it was only $2.00 per week or $22.00 for one year. The reason for this increase was the change in the State formula by which the tuition is figured. This formula (as simply as possible) is as follows: The total of the costs of teachers' salaries, fuel, janitors, books, and supplies, utilities, building insurance, and 6% of the insured valuation of school buildings is divided by the average number of pupils. This gives the per capita cost. Conveyance costs are not figured because each town pays its own bill.

When this formula was revised it was done with the thought that some tuition pupils were possibly not paying their proportionate cost of the school buildings. Therefore the above item for insured valuation of school buildings was set at the figure of 6%. At present this 6% of insured valuation of Bethel school buildings is approximately $9,400.00. The average number of pupils last year was 520. In dividing we get about $18.00 per pupil which amount can be considered as paying for building costs only.

To get a total picture suppose we estimate an average of 45 tuition pupils (it could be more or less) at the present rate of $18 per year. This means $810.00 per year for buildings from tuition pupils only. The life of a building is debatable, but 50 years is often mentioned.

Of course, we cannot figure what tuition will be that far ahead, but $10 for 50 years is over $4,000 and that ought to build three class-rooms when two is ample for more than the 45 pupils. Therefore, it can be clearly seen that tuition pupils are more than paying their way even when we consider building costs.

Also at the present time there are 47 tuition pupils in a total enrollment of 517. The three year average of 1949-51 was 60 tuition pupils in an average enrollment of about 485.

These 47 tuition pupils are in nine grades, an average of slightly more than 5 per grade.

Bethel received over $4,700.00 from elementary tuition in 1953.

Fact No. 1—Tuition pupils are paying their own way in all respects.

Fact No. 2—Overcrowding is primarily a result of the great increase in the number of resident pupils.

Fact No. 3—The total exclusion of tuition pupils, average of 5 per grade, would do little to relieve the total classroom situation being caused by entering classes of 60 to 70 and over.

Fact No. 4—If the tuition pupils were excluded the $4,700 now received for tuition would certainly be missed.

We have tried to keep this explanation as simple as possible so that everyone may understand it. However, if there are those who do not, you should plan to present your questions, on this or other topics, to the Survey Committee when it holds an open meeting in February on a date to be announced later.

BOY SCOUT REPORT

The meeting on Thursday evening, Jan. 7, was opened by Richard Saunders, with the Scout Laws and Oath. Some boys paid their registration fee and dues were collected. Gene Haggan closed the meeting with the Scout Benediction.—Donald Christie, Scribe.

TWO MORE INJURED

The fact that the highway turn on Route 2 near Hazen Lowell's is a danger spot gets more emphatic as accidents continue to occur at this point.

Mr. Buckley lost front teeth and several stitches were required for cuts on his lips. Others in the car, Mr. and Mrs. David Buckley and Paul Buckley, received bruises.

The Insect Hordes

Fifteen years ago hordes of grasshoppers invaded the growing fields, the country-side and the communities of an area of Southern California. Crops were a total loss, trees were denuded, shrubbery killed. The hoppers crawled on man's face and neck, and on his clothing. They moved like a stream of lava, consuming everything in their path. The people of the area were mobilized. They fought the destructive insects with burning oil, garden tools and brooms. It was a modern-day version of the locust plagues and the terrifying marches of the ants out of the pages of history.

But in the span of 15 years science and American industry have almost caught up with the insect scourge. Today such a grasshopper invasion could be blotted out by newly developed insecticides sprayed from low-flying planes. In fact, insecticides and techniques for using them have begun to raise farm production—both field crops and livestock—by an astonishing amount. The available new chemicals and those in the process of development, however, still have a big job to do in the control of insects.

Winning Battle

Probably few people realize the extent of man's battle against the insect hordes. Man could still lose the battle, although in the past decade, thanks to America's chemical industries he has definitely gained the upper hand. The insects have been on earth from the beginning. They outnumber man overwhelmingly, they outweigh all the animal life on the globe, and not a single species ever has been eradicated.

There are 65,000 insect species and 2,000 different ticks and mites at work in the U. S. A., multiplying, destroying vegetation and livestock, killing human beings, and generally making a costly nuisance of themselves. In 1932, they destroyed 41 billion worth of crops in the U. S. Their capabilities are almost beyond belief. Do you know? Entomologists calculate that the accumulated production springing from a single pair of flies could, in a few months if nothing interfered, cover the earth with a blanket of flies three feet thick!

Key to Plenty

Food to nourish the world's growing population is a tremendous world problem. Scientists working in America's great chemical plants believe that chemistry—and chemistry alone—holds the key to plenty for all mankind. In recent years they have produced evidence to bolster their beliefs—fertilizers made from inexhaustible chemical elements, insecticides which further boost farm productivity, and processes and techniques for preserving food stuff which only a few years ago was a perishable value.

The boll weevil has destroyed as much as $1 billion worth of cotton and nutritious cotton seed all a year in America alone. The Hessian fly, which bug and other pests prey on America's wheat crop have been destroying millions of bushels of wheat annually. Corn earworms, borers and other insects have cut drastically into the productivity of the midwestern corn belt. Production of alfalfa, potatoes, fruits, vegetables, grains of all kinds and livestock has been crippled by the insect pests. We have the figures for America. For the whole world, the insect hordes on food production are staggering.

Great Vision

Regardless of farm policy, of politics, of so-called land reform in the backward areas of the world, the productivity of an acre of land—in America, in China, India, Africa, Europe or the Middle East—is of great importance. Whatever makes it possible to double the production on each of the two-and-a-half billion acres now growing the world's food is a greater boon to human progress than all the governmental economic blueprints ever drafted.

American industry, because it is free, competitive and dynamic, thus becomes a great world force as it brings forth from its experimental laboratories the methods,

DALE CARNEGIE

★ AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING" ★

S. H. LAWRENCE, M. D., 154½ Screenland Drive, Burbank, California, says that after he graduated from high school he became a college addict, a chronic collegian. At the end of ten years of education he decided to make the break which must inevitably come and finally divorced himself from college.

He went to New York City and got a job with a research organization. Here he was working with some of the best scientific minds in the country, and it didn't take him long to develop a real inferiority complex.

The men there had developed the policy of asking each other to watch over their departments for occasional periods while they were away. He began to worry for fear they would ask him to do this. Then he would be asked questions that he couldn't answer and his ignorance would be brought to everyone's attention. He worked many unnecessary hours just so he wouldn't become indebted to anyone. Many nights he couldn't fall asleep because the thought kept running through his mind: "I hope no one asks me to cover for him tomorrow."

CARNEGIE

Finally he took stock of himself, and decided that if this went on he would never learn anything new and he would in addition become a chronic worrier. So he started to accept strange situations as a challenge. He volunteered to watch over the other men's work for them. He found himself in many strange situations and he was asked many questions he could not answer, but no one seemed to take that seriously. He stopped worrying and greatly to his satisfaction he found himself popular with the men. Soon he was broadening his knowledge and fields of interest amazingly.

How Strong Are We?

As a new year begins, it is the part of wisdom for a nation, like a business, to review its assets and its liabilities.

On the credit side, the United States has an unrivaled standard of living. Our men and women enjoy wages and working conditions superior to those existing anywhere else. The tide of goods and services that flows endlessly along the American production and distribution line staggers the imagination. Materially speaking, business, agriculture, and labor are doing well.

We have a political system which comes as close to being responsive to the wishes of the people as any one can conceive of. In the last presidential election the people removed from power a party which had been in control for 20 years and put another in its place. In some future election the party now in power will be replaced. But no heads roll; no purges are held; the losers are not liquidated. All are free to air their views.

We are no longer actually at war, unsatisfactory as the Korean situation is. If recent reports are correct, our military strength and that of Western Europe have shown remarkable improvement. The chance of another world war is less than it was.

So much for the credit side of the ledger. What of the debit? The most disheartening domestic development of recent times has been the growing dependence of millions of people on government, mainly the federal government, to provide services and benefits that, if a free system is to be preserved, must remain the responsibility of the individual and the family group. There has been a blind seeking for a kind of cradle-to-the-grave security whose end, in the sweep of history, has always been the sapping of moral fiber and spiritual values and ultimate slavery. The most obvious manifestations of super-government are crushing taxes and mounting national debts, and the inevitable undermining of economic and political freedoms.

Another phase of the debit side is found in the long strides that have been made in either socializing outright American enterprises and resources, or in subjecting them to so much government dictation and control that socialization comes ever nearer. And socialism, historically, is but the forerunner of communism or some similar system of government by oppression and terror.

It is true that our present government is pledged to reverse this deadly process. It is true that some heartening steps in that direction have been made. It is equally true that the forces that would destroy our free system and replace it with a very different kind of system are still availing themselves of the chance.

As a matter of self preservation we must put the welfare of the nation first in considering important national issues, because our jobs, our businesses, our farms, and our liberties depend upon the perpetuation of a strong nation of self-governing people.

What the decision will be depends entirely upon our moral strength. Will we welcome policies and programs that are in accord with the philosophy of maximum freedom for all—and will we accept the temporary financial dislocations that such policies and programs may create? It will not be easy to end the era of do-all, give-all government. But, if the traditions and ideals to which we all pay lip service, and which have made us great and strong are to be preserved, it is as necessary as the air we breathe.

Nineteen fifty-four will be a year to test whether the American people will have what it takes to maintain themselves as independent individuals.

WORTH REPEATING

"The Taft-Hartley Law has brought about a greater degree of industrial peace than anything we have tried since our Government's entry into the labor relations field. It preserves the right of individual employees and protects the interests of the public in labor disputes. Certainly a law which does this is not only beneficial to all employees—union and non-union—but to the public as well."—William J. Grede, President, Grede Foundries, Milwaukee, Wis.

"Manufacturing, which employs about a half of the total labor forces in this country, has about 20 per cent of its total employment in non-technical or non-scientific occupations. These one-fifth of all the workers employed in manufacturing are in positions having to do with people much more than with things. Many major business problems are human rather than mechanical and industry functions best when human problems and tensions are least."—Earl Bunting, Managing Director, NAM.

"Too many Americans have mistaken the halting of inflation and the stabilization of prices on a high plateau as omens of a depression. They are talking about one, and that is bad. They are undermining confidence for no reason at all. They are unwittingly playing the Soviet game."—News, Indianapolis, Ind.

"In this century, the Federal government has moved into many fields simply because local governments lacked vitality. There were many jobs which needed doing, and the Federal government took them over. But I think we have to recognize that we have there gotten into a vicious circle. Local governments lose even more vitality as they lose their functions and responsibilities to the Federal government."—Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D. Minn.).

"The only time when it can seriously be contended that the annual improvement factor is noninflationary is in a period when output is predominantly civilian, rather than military, which would be, of course, a period when prices and wages were uncontrolled. But at such a time there is a simpler and more equitable mechanism for passing along the benefits of increased 'productivity'—namely, the traditional device of reducing prices."—Springfield (Mass.) My PET PEEVE

By W. Scott Boyd

IF IT WASN'T for the fact that most of us forget ourselves once in a while and act like human beings, this old world would be a mighty dull place in which to pass an average day.

Take my sister Sue, for example. Sue's husband owns one of the nicer department stores in town. This is fine for Sue, for she can go down to the store after closing hours, browse around and take her pick of the merchandise.

I have a sort of a different problem with my wife. She starts out to buy a loaf of bread and a pound of butter and comes back with enough supplies to stock a Yukon cabin for the whole winter season—"a few things" she remembered she "might" need.

The little woman actually has winning ways, tho. She wins every time. Recently, we had the kitchen rather disarranged due to the fact that plumbers and carpenters had been working about the house. She calls, "Dear, can you leave the office long enough to come home and move a couple of things for me?" It was one of my bluest days, but I didn't have the heart (or the courage) to argue.

After two hours of moving furniture hither and yon, accumulating blisters, I start to leave and she breaks my heart.

"Thanks, dear, now I can sweep and dust. Conscience wouldn't have let me make the bridge club tonight with the house in such a mess."

I just know we have more fun than monkeys do, don't you?

strength. Will we welcome policies and programs that are in accord with the philosophy of maximum freedom for all—and will we accept the temporary financial dislocations that such policies and programs may create? It will not be easy to end the era of do-all, give-all government. But, if the traditions and ideals to which we all pay lip service, and which have made us great and strong are to be preserved, it is as necessary as the air we breathe.

Nineteen fifty-four will be a year to test whether the American people will have what it takes to maintain themselves as independent individuals.

WORTH REPEATING

"The Taft-Hartley Law has brought about a greater degree of industrial peace than anything we have tried since our Government's entry into the labor relations field. It preserves the right of individual employees and protects the interests of the public in labor disputes. Certainly a law which does this is not only beneficial to all employees—union and non-union—but to the public as well."—William J. Grede, President, Grede Foundries, Milwaukee, Wis.

"Manufacturing, which employs about a half of the total labor forces in this country, has about 20 per cent of its total employment in non-technical or non-scientific occupations. These one-fifth of all the workers employed in manufacturing are in positions having to do with people much more than with things. Many major business problems are human rather than mechanical and industry functions best when human problems and tensions are least."—Earl Bunting, Managing Director, NAM.

"Too many Americans have mistaken the halting of inflation and the stabilization of prices on a high plateau as omens of a depression. They are talking about one, and that is bad. They are undermining confidence for no reason at all. They are unwittingly playing the Soviet game."—News, Indianapolis, Ind.

"In this century, the Federal government has moved into many fields simply because local governments lacked vitality. There were many jobs which needed doing, and the Federal government took them over. But I think we have to recognize that we have there gotten into a vicious circle. Local governments lose even more vitality as they lose their functions and responsibilities to the Federal government."—Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D. Minn.).

"The only time when it can seriously be contended that the annual improvement factor is noninflationary is in a period when output is predominantly civilian, rather than military, which would be, of course, a period when prices and wages were uncontrolled. But at such a time there is a simpler and more equitable mechanism for passing along the benefits of increased 'productivity'—namely, the traditional device of reducing prices."—Springfield (Mass.) Union.

PREDICT GOOD 1954 YEAR

—LOWER TAXES WILL HELP

The year 1954 will be generally a good year for business with many opportunities to create new markets, it was reported today by the Maine State Chamber of Commerce.

In all probability defense spending will continue to decline as it has since the end of the Korean War, but tax reductions and tax eliminations will pump new money into business. Taxes on personal incomes dropped an average of 10 percent on December 31, and the so-called excess profits tax expired at the year end. During the year beginning next July, tax changes will add approximately $7.5 billion to the buying power of American citizens at present levels of business. For the citizens of Maine this will mean an additional $33 million of purchasing power by mid summer, the Chamber reported.

Another $200 billion is already on tap nationally, as represented by savings and other liquid assets. Maine is in an enviable position in this respect. According to latest available figures released by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Maine stands 23rd in the nation in the amount of savings deposits in banks, while population-wise the state stands 35th in the list of states. Over $486 million is on deposit in savings accounts in Maine banks. Consumers will spend some of it if they like what they see in the market place. In a word the customer should be in a better buying position in 1954.

Killip The next meeting is to be held at the home of Bessie Andrews.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me. (Matthew 25:40.) Read John 10:1-15.

One day an ill-clad man with a hand poorly bandaged called at our door. He told us a long and story about his hurt hand which kept him from being able to work. He asked for help. My father asked to see the injured hand and offered to dress it with a new bandage. This offer appeared to surprise the beggar. Suddenly he put both his hands to his face and broke into crying.

"What is wrong?" my father asked.

"Sir, I'm not hurt," he sobbed, "but this is the only way I can make people help me."

There are many beggars who play upon the sympathy of those they approach. As Christians, what are we to do? There are so many that need our help. We must try to give it constructively. This does not mean that we are merely to hand over money, but rather to give spiritual and moral help. Thus we show that there are those who care and that there are ways for each to help himself.

Prayer

Our Father, there is so much need in the world today. We ask Thee to help us to keep true to Thy teachings. Help us not to ignore even the least of our brethren but to help them in the spirit of Christlike kindness. In His name. Amen.

Thought For The Day
Christ's dying for man's salvation proves God's estimate of man's worth. —Martha Irene Goldschmidt (Uruguay)

The Lord is high unto all them that call upon Him, that call upon Him in truth. —Psalm 145:18.

God is all around us, all-seeing, all-knowing. But having been given will-power, we must make the choice—we must make our prayer to Him if we would receive the blessing of His mercy and forgiveness, the wonder of His love.

Scarcity of skilled farm labor, increased use of machinery, and emphasis on grassland farming have helped bring about tremendous changes in methods and machinery for harvesting and storing roughage on Maine farms.

Major Ball for Pacific Coast Will Be Costly

If and when the major leagues expand to the West Coast and take in Los Angeles, it will take a millionaire and not some shoe-string operator to run the club, judging from some figures cited in The Sporting News. The cost of building a new park is estimated at $5,000,000 and the expense of actual operation will exceed $1,700,000, according to a survey by Phil K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs and the Los Angeles Angels.

The rub comes from the fact that a major league club in Los Angeles will not be "an overnight bonanza," unless it develops into an immediate contender. But, as Wrigley pointed out, it is likely the team will have to start out with "culls, mediocre players and undeveloped youngsters," and the process of building up will take "a lot of time and money."

Once the novelty of major league ball wears off and civic enthusiasm fades, promotion alone won't spin the turnstiles in Los Angeles, which is accustomed to "the use of flamboyant Hollywood techniques," the report added. "What would be startling and make a big splash in Cleveland would get yawns in Los Angeles."

That means the owner of a Los Angeles major league club can expect some lean years at the gate until he can produce a winner. Any millionaire interested?

Can Indiana Repeat as Cage Champions?

The hustling Hoosiers of Indiana, who won the Big Ten and National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball championships last season, are rated a good chance to win both titles again this year—unless history repeats itself.

The team that compiled a 23-7 record last season is back virtually intact, with Dick Farley, Charley Krank, Don Schlundt, Burke Scott and Bob Leonard as starters and Lou Scott, Paul Poff, Phil Evers, Dick White and Jim Deakins as reserves. In addition, several "hungry" sophomores are on hand to press the veterans for their jobs. However, Coach Branch McCracken remembers what happened 13 years ago. In 1940, McCracken's Indiana club won the NCAA title, but when the team returned the next season, it failed even to win the Big Ten crown.

Dies and Data

The Detroit Tigers will take 10 pitchers to spring training and, from this number, Manager Fred Goetz expects to find some who don't throw a gopher ball. The Bengals hurlers yielded more home runs last season than any other staff in the American League serving up 151 round-trippers.... Ted Williams of the Red Sox, who hit .407 in 37 games after returning from Korea, increased his lifetime batting average to .347 to pull 2.5 points ahead of Stan Musial of the Cardinals. Musial's career mark dropped to .343 after The Man compiled an average of .337 last season.... The years may be creeping up on Phil Rizzuto, but the Yankees are five deep behind the Scooter in shortstop possibilities. Manager Casey Stengel's roster includes Willie Miranda, Andy Carey, Jim Bredeweser, Jerry Coleman, and Billy Martin, not to mention Mickey Mantle, who broke into organized ball as a shortstop.... Ed Mathews, the home run king of the majors, also was the error champion, committing 30 miscues at third base.... Orestes Minoza, the White Sox speedster also is listed in the Department of Dubious Distinctions. He led the A. L. in stolen bases and, oddly enough, topped the circuit in grounding into double plays.

Mathews' Switch Is Outfield Predicted

Gus Bell of the Reds doesn't believe that Milwaukee landed Danny O'Connell from the Pirates for second base, as many think, reports Oscar Ruhl in The Sporting News. "It wouldn't surprise me if the Milwaukee bosses want to switch Ed Mathews from third base to the outfield and use O'Connell on third," Bell says. "Despite the way Mathews socked home runs and drove in runs for the Braves last season, Milwaukee 'wolves' frequently made life miserable for Ed because of his fielding at third base. If Ed can switch to the outfield and make the grade defensively, he'd likely be a more valuable player than at third base. That, of course, wouldn't solve the club's so-called problem at second base, but that isn't such a pressing problem. Young Jack Dittmer came along pretty good there last season and could improve."

Rev. Robert H. Harper
Jesus and Nicodemus: John 3:1-16
Golden Text: John 3:16

Nicodemus is known as the man who came to Jesus by night, and many have believed he was afraid to come by day. But later he cooperated with Joseph of Arimathea in laying the body of Jesus away.

Though one of the teachers of Israel, he was greatly in need of being taught. And he was humble enough to come to Jesus for instruction. He could not understand how a man could be born again. And there are many to the present time who have never learned the way and the how of the new birth. A great preacher in London, hearing the celebrated young Summerfield preach, afterward asked the young man where he had been born. "In Dublin and in Liverpool," was the answer. "How can that be?" the great preacher asked. Summerfield replied with a question, in the words of Jesus in speaking to Nicodemus, "Art thou a master in Israel and knowest not these things?"

By faith in Christ, men may be born again and enter into new life for the soul. Reader, do you trust in Jesus as the savior of your soul? John Wesley was long without the assurance that he was the redeemed child of God, a new-born man. But in his memorable experience in the Aldersgate Street Church in London, as one was reading the Scripture, he felt his heart strangely warmed, and was given the assurance that God for Christ's sake had forgiven his sins and made him an heir of everlasting life. Let us find such an assurance through our faith in Jesus Christ, the Savior of men.

LEAVE SHOES AT EARL DAVIS for repair. RICHARD'S SHOE SHOP, Gorham, N. H. 40tf

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Walter Olson, Forest Grove, Oregon: I remember as a child my folks immigrated into the southern prairies of Saskatchewan, Canada.

We children would go after the cows in the evening. Because there were no fences and an open herd law, the cows went in any direction they wished to graze. We often walked into buffalo (bison) trails and were ever alert for buffalo horns. Most of the time we were rewarded. We had any number of them, and in pairs.

My dad polished some of them for ornaments and, to my knowledge, none were saved as they were too common-place. What would I give for that sack of buffalo horns today!

From C. E. Jeff, Marietta, Georgia: I remember when I was a small boy—we ate corn bread for breakfast six days a week and biscuits for breakfast on Sunday morning.

In the winter, six of us kids went nearly two miles to school. The ground was frozen and I had no shoes. I waited until the other kids who had shoes to wear were way ahead, then I would start to run and run all the way to keep my feet warm. This was in Osage county, Missouri, at the Phelps school house.

From Mrs. D. A. Newland, Fort Worth, Texas: I am 77 years old and remember when we had to go to a cold kitchen, light a wood stove, grind coffee, make biscuits with lard and fat, then slice bacon before breakfast.

HEART ASSN. DEBUNKS MYTHS ABOUT HEART DISEASE

Dr Charles Steele, President of the Maine Heart Association, today asked every citizen to adopt this resolution for 1954:

"Resolved, I will be guided by facts about heart disease, rather than fears and phobias."

As a prelude to the 1954 Heart Fund campaign, which is to be conducted nationally throughout February, the Association issued a statement directing attention to five of the most common misconceptions concerning heart disease.

Heading the list is the often-heard fallacy that "nothing can be done about heart disease."

This is contrary to fact, says the American Heart Association, adding "some forms of heart disease can be prevented, some can be cured. Your doctor can help almost all cases, especially if diagnosed early."

Another boner which the Heart Association would like to see eliminated is the notion that "most heart attacks are fatal." Untrue, The Association has this to say:

"After a heart attack, the majority recover to lead productive lives."

Then there is the long-propagated myth that "murmurs, chest pains and palpitations are sure signs of heart trouble." Countering fancy with fact, the Heart Association points out that these "symptoms" do not necessarily indicate heart trouble—that only your doctor can tell.

Is it true that women with heart disease should not have children? The oldwives' tale says that it is. Yet that is wrong.

"With proper medical care," reports the Association, "most women with heart disease can bear children safely."

Finally, Dr Steele debunks one of the most persistent and widely held misconceptions of all, namely, that "you can't work if you have heart disease." Here is its answer:

"Most can still earn their living—often without changing jobs."

With diseases of the heart and circulation responsible for more than 750,000 deaths yearly, or more than all other diseases combined, the American Heart Association explained that it doesn't for one moment minimize the seriousness of the heart disease problem.

"On the other hand," the statement continues, "the outlook warrants hope and optimism."

"It is our hope that the American people will put aside the glaring misconceptions that have been handed down from generation to generation. These untruths have fostered unwarranted fears, prevented heart sufferers from obtaining the attention they require, and in general have been harmful to progress.

"Our chief hope is that research—supported by the Heart Fund—will provide the knowledge needed to bring under control this nation's leading health menace. This hope underscores and gives meaning to the Heart Fund slogan—'Help Your Heart Fund—Help Your Heart!'"

Experience teacheth that resolution is a sole help in need. —Shakespeare

EASY DOES IT
BY HELEN HALE

IT TAKES only a little ingenuity to make ordinary foods something very special. Start on these tips for some ideas:

Stewed tomatoes can be practically epicurean when you add some crushed cereal flakes to them while heating along with one of the following seasonings: 3 tablespoons minced onion, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce or 1 tablespoon chili sauce.

After you pan-broil hamburgers, add to the drippings 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce and ¼ tea-

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Spanish Beef Salad
(Serves 6)

6 slices cold roast beef
Tomato French Dressing
1 head of lettuce, shredded
6 thick slices tomato
6 onion slices
6 green pepper rings

Cut roast beef into long narrow strips. Marinate in dressing for an hour. Toss in salad bowl with lettuce and additional dressing. Border bowl with alternating slices of tomato, onion and green pepper.

spoon dry mustard. Spoon this sauce over the hamburgers.

Try spiced fruit for dessert: cook one pound dried apricots as directed; 10 minutes before done, add ½ cup brown sugar, 5 whole cloves and 2" stick cinnamon. Cover; chill overnight. Serve with cream.

This is the season for mulled drinks. Combine equal parts of apple cider and apricot whole fruit nectar; heat with a few allspice and cloves and serve at once.

Use this as a topping for coffee cake before baking: combine ¼ cup honey, with an equal amount of sugar, butter and flour. Add ½ cup cut-up walnuts or roasted almonds.

Try different seasonings for vegetables if you want them in the spotlight. French dressing does wonders for spinach and green beans, while powdered cloves are excellent with hot beets, and ginger goes with squash.

Dimes, Friends Aid 4 in Family Felled by Polio

A Kansas farmer has discovered that a good neighbor in time of need is more valuable than silver and gold.

Robert Stahl and his family were saved from heartache and tragedy by the action of good neighbors.

Stahl, his wife and four children were busy on their 127-acre farm near Wichita, Kans. last summer—getting ready for the fall harvesting when polio struck.

First, little 3-year-old Troy came down with the disease. Then Ronald, who is 10, contracted polio. A few days later, Charles, 12, and Fatsy, 14, also went on the sick list.

Finally, Mrs. Stahl herself was afflicted.

The whole family was moved to St. Francis hospital, Wichita, leaving Stahl alone on his farm.

For a while, he didn't know what to do. The financial burden had been lifted through March of Dimes funds but the burden of work remained.

Then his neighbors volunteered to take over his farm until the family was out of danger.

Stahl's neighbors pitched in and he kept a vigil at the bedside of his wife and children.

With the continued help of that other good neighbor, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the family began to improve.

Stahl went back to his farm comforted by the knowledge that his family was being cared for. His neighbors had done a wonderful job of keeping things going on the farm. So he was able to carry on.

Today, Mrs. Stahl and three of the children are fully recovered. Charles, the 12-year-old, still has one partially paralyzed leg but Mrs. Stahl hopes he too will soon be well.

"Then maybe," she said, "it'll all seem like just a bad dream." The National Foundation hopes so, too. That's why it has launched a huge polio prevention program involving gamma globulin and a trial vaccine. If the program succeeds, families like the Stahls may be free of the polio threat forever.

All who have been exposed will remain at home and not spread it which is also best for those liable to have them.

Rev. Earle W. Dolphin has been teaching at South Paris high school for about two weeks.

Mrs. Nina Steeves of Scarborough, Maine, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Damon.

GOULD ACADEMY

SAINTS TAKE GOULD 62-48

Gould Academy ran into a really hot, sharpshooting foe, in St. Patrick's, last Tuesday and went down to their first defeat of the season.

It was a fast, hard fought game throughout. The Huskies rallied in the third period to come within 3 points of tying the score but then fell apart for the first time this season.

The Saints are an all senior veteran group with a great center in Leo Donaldson, who scored 24 points, a Roy and Laurence Donaldson scored in double figures with 13 and 10 points. For the Huskies, Fossett collected 20 points but had little assistance from the scoring end.

The Gould J.V.s dropped a thriller in the preliminary 49-47.

GOULD RALLIES TO DROP LIVERMORE FALLS, 44-41

Behind 7 points, 32-25, at the start of the final period the Huskies put on a last ditch rally scoring 19 points while holding Livermore Falls to 9 and winning 44-41.

Both teams played poor ball, missing many shots, losing the ball on bad passes, traveling, and double dribbling. Only in the last 5 minutes did the winners show any of their pre-holiday form.

Merle White with 16 points was high for Gould and it was his 3 markers in the last period that helped to bridge the gap. Fossett and Gene White with 11 and 10 each ably assisted.

For the losers the only man to score over 7 points was Bailey, who took scoring honors for the game with 10. Both teams played well defensively and both teams were equally poor from the foul line.

Gould missed 20 out of 32 and Livermore Falls missed 28 out of 43.

In the preliminary game the Gould J.V.s went down to their first defeat of the season 31-40. Tied 8-8 at the first period the Livermore Falls understudies rallied in the second quarter to gain a 20-12 advantage, which Gould could not overcome.

MEXICO HERE TUESDAY

The Gould Academy basketballers play away again this Friday with a conference game at South Paris.

On Tuesday, however, the Huskies will entertain Mexico at the Field House. This should be a real battle as both teams defeated Livermore Falls by three points and both defeated Norway by similar margins.

Mexico lost a heart-breaker to South Paris 36-35 after leading 25-31 with less than two minutes to play.

The Pintos are a real threat in the Western Division of the Sun-Journal League and the home team will have plenty of trouble stopping Mexico's 6' 6" center.

Coach Anderson will start Paul Fossett and Merle White in the forward post with Paul Howe at center. In the back court will be "Skip" Melville and Gene White.

The action will start at 6:30 with a Junior Varsity game. The Varsity game is scheduled for about 8:15.

David Thompson and the Misses Valeria Kimball and Nita Hale of the Gould faculty acted as judges for the prize speaking contest at Stephens High School, Rumford, Thursday evening.

MAINE'S EXHIBIT BEING READIED FOR BOSTON AND NEW YORK SPORTS SHOWS

Kilfr Beck, artistic and mechanical genius, is outdoing himself in the construction of Maine's annual exhibit for Boston and New York sports shows in February.

Approximately 100 feet long by 18 feet deep, this year's display will feature a huge, realistic waterfall. From 19 to 18 thousand gallons of water an hour will spill over the falls. A cleverly placed spotlight, shining through a circle of colors, will produce a beautiful rainbow in the mist of the falls. One end of the rainbow will lie across a string of freshly-caught rainbow trout.

To the right of the falls, as one faces the exhibit, will be a large pool, containing 50 landlocked salmon and trout. Some of the fish will weigh from five to seven pounds apiece, the heaviest ever displayed by Maine at the shows.

In back of the tree-flanked pool, a stream will flow. Making a slow circle of this stream, a perfectly executed miniature birch bark canoe will be paddled by a Maine Indian guide. In the bow, an angler casts a fly toward the rippling shoreline and halfway around the circuit he hooks and loses a leaping fish. His excitement causes his hat to fly off. The effect is one of mechanical wizardry and those who have seen it declare "the old master" (Beck) proves with his device that he is at the peak of his interesting career.

Maine's information booth will be located on the end of the exhibit and will be staffed by Fish and Game Wardens and personnel from the Maine Publicity Bureau in Portland.

The number of laying hens in Maine has nearly doubled in recent years.
